JOHN T. BRUSH'S LETTER

HIS REPLY TO BARNEY DREYFUSS. OF THE LOUISVILLE BALL CLUB.

National League Politics Discussed-Arrangements for To-Day's Game -Baseball Notes.

John T. Brush has written a long letter to Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Louisville Baseball Club, answering Dreyfuss's attack on him and incidentally throwing light on National League politics. Says Mr.

"Your letter on behalf of the Louisville club under date of March 27 was duly received. Business engagements, combined with illness, prevented me from making reply at an earlier date. I am also in recelpt of yours of the 31st ult. from Washington, which, summarized, charges gross injustice to the Louisville club in the adoption of the schedule and places the responsibility for the injustice alleged with myself upon the grounds that I was attempting to get even with you personally for certain allegations inspired by yourself which were detrimental to me. I note your denial of any utterance that would reflect upon me in a personal way; that you have differed with Messrs. Hart, Robison and myself in the past and will likely in the future; that it is a privilege and right which you enjoy, and that you belong to no clique or individual, and that you alone are to blame for not attending the last meeting. You appeal to me to support the motion of the Louisville club for the adoption of a schedule presented at the meeting convened Feb. 25, and, in fact, there are so many things touched upon in your letter of eight pages that it is almost impossible to reply to them all by letter. The entire subject is one which could better be discussed in a per-

There are two parties in the National League, with policies as clearly defined as those which influence the two political parties which govern this country. The policy of one of these parties is inherited from the old National League, which flourished from 1876 to 1891. The policy which it bequeathed contemplated a league of eight clubs and that each club in the League should live practically upon its own receipts. There were some modifications of this rule forced upon the League during the last years of its existence, much against the desire of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, and in party sprang from ar experience gathered during all those years with the introduction of liberal, progressive and up-to-date ideas which should permanently establish a twelve-club League upon the broad and equitable basis of club equality. The promoters of amalgamation in 1891 adopted a platform which was in opposition to the old League policy and which provided for twelve clubs with an equal division of receipts, Sunday baseball for such clubs as desired to participate and the liberality which characterized the government and control of the Western clubs in the management of club affairs. The attempt to reconcile these possible. Boston objected to giving 50 per cent, of its receipts in exchange for 50 per cent. of the receipts in Louisville. New York objected, the present Philadelphia club sidetracked the amalgamation for two whole days and only yielded when it became necessary to do so to secure membership instead of the Wagners, who stood ready to accept a franchise upon the lines indicated in our constitution. So that whatever opposition there was to the twelve-club organization, whatever opposition there was to Sunday baseball, whatever opposition there was to an equal division of gate receipts came by inheritance from the League through the three clubs referred to. You say that you have, and very likely will, differ with me as to my policy. The party with which I have been identified labored for the twelve-club organization, with Louisville as a factor; it labored for the adoption of a constitution which would guarantee the club of which you are the president undisturbed rights for ten years. It stood for an equal division of receipts between all clubs, between the rich and poor alike, and the right for every club to conduct its own affairs, within the constitutional limits, including the right of Sunday FOR RENT-Corn Farm; three hundred acre

"If you approve of the twelve-club league, the equal division of receipts, the right to play Sunday baseball and the right to control the details of your own park, I do not understand how you can fail to indorse the policy of those who have secured for you the rights you have enjoyed. Since the amaigamation my voice and influence, whenever they have been exerted, have been in favor tenant; $200 a year. Inquire of MRS. YOKE, of the clubs that were likely to be non-selfsupporting. If you doubt this, you are at liberty to inquire of Mr. Young, who has constructed the schedules, and I think he will say that until this year I have always ones most favored when it came to the assignment of desirable schedule dates. In proof of this the Cincinnati club has paid the Louisville club for Sunday games nearly $16,000 since 1892, and $5,000 to the Chicago club. It would have been much to the advantage of the Cincinnati club financially i had played more games with Chicago and less with Louisville. Four Sunday-playing clubs in the West need never be idle upon a Sunday except while playing in the East, and yet Chicago and Cincinnati have remained idle a great many Sundays in order that Louisville, Cleveland and St. Louis might have their quota of Sunday dates. In all these details Mr. Hart and myself, representing the Chicago and Cincinnati clubs, have at all times stood for the full and absolute protection of the Louisville club, to the end that it might retain its position in the League without financial loss. One year ago I gave the Louisville club three players and received in return for them a pitcher. I placed no value upon the pitcher we received, and the only motive for taking him at all was on account of public sentiment, which might charge me with selling desirable players for pecuniary reasons and which would provoke criticism later on if it should happen that we might need them. Two of them were very valuable men, and one could not have been purchased by anyone for several thousand dollars, but I was glad to aid the Louisville club by making such a contribution to its playing strength. I know that Mr. Hart, with the same feeling that prompted me, made contributions to your club, anxious to aid you in securing a winning team.
"All this is baseball history and probably need not have been referred to, yet in reaching for conclusions and for motives these facts come to the surface and seem to be a part of that which is to be considered. You have been, as you say, opposed to the policy of Messrs. Hart, Robison and myself. any measure that we have ever favored has been adopted it was because a majority in that the League, or a majority, gave its approval and assumed responsibility. I canthe League thought as we did; this means | the Louisville club, in a written opinion not recall the adoption of any vicious legislation that we have favored; in fact, any one who aspires to lead and who stands for the vicious will not long remain in leadership. "Last year the Louisville club entered into a combination (I have the authority of a League president who was a party to the combine for this assertion) to reduce the board of directors from six to three for the express purpose of reducing the power and influence of Messrs. Hart, Robison and Brush. The same combine entered into an agreement to reduce the national board of arbitration from six to three for the purpose of minimizing the influence of Messrs. Hart, Robison and Brush. I was informed by the President of a League club that the motive which inspired the Louisville club to this action came from the failure to get from a minor league a player, two or three years ago, which I was supposed to control. and which, as a matter of fact, was wholly beyond my jurisdiction, and I have the authority of the same club president that the Louisville club proposed in the future for that reason to oppose every measure that I favored regardless of its merit, and I must say that, in view of the policy pursued for the past year upon all legislative matters in the Louisville club has not been incorrectly declaration that there are two distinct parties in the National League whose policies have been antagonistic, not in minor details, perhaps, but in the general plan of organization, and, while it is true that a man has the right to his opinion and is the customary for a politician of one party to go to the opposite party, whom he has been fighting, for favors or for office, and so, when you have left the party to which you have been allied and join the opposition and unite with them in tearing down that which it has built up and maintained for years. I submit that you ought not to think out of place if it be suggested to you that the party to which you have now become allied should offer you the protection which you seek, and particularly since it is within the power of that party to offer you a full measure of relief. It would be no novelty for the Pittsburg club to play Sunlay ball with you. The Cincinnati club paid them nearly $5,000 last season for Sunday which I have been interested, the purpose of games played in Cincinnati. "Being of your party and you being in full measure of reform advocated by the Pittsburg club for the elevation and progress of he game, standing solidly, as you have, by his progressive club and following its lead in all of the important legislation which it has advanced for the promotion and uptreats and radically cures inebriety, morphine tery and highway robbery. The offense was building of baseball, it strikes me that your appeal should lie with Mr. Kerr. For the team, and is pulling him away from the committed Dec. 5, 1898. He "held up" a support that you have accorded him in all dianapolis in order to realize a goo of the measures which he has introduced for his release to some other club.

and which have had the careful considera-tion of the League, he would, without doubt, reconsider his determination not to play Sunday ball with Louisville this year and yield the point, and, if he should, you need not have an idle Sunday. This would render the party which is antagonistics to your interest, and to which you stand in opposition, free to make such arrangements for itself as might be desirable or congenial. I entertain no enmity whatever towards you or any official of the Louisville club; on the contrary, I esteem them very high-ly, and I take no account of what individuals or the press may say of me. These things have no effect whatever in determining my policy; I am unalterably for what I conceive to be for the best interests of baseball without regard to consequences, and, being a believer in parties, I am willing, even if convicted, to plead loyalty to the principles of the party to which in baseball

"The party which you deserted and to which I belong can play nearly every Sunday game in the schedule; the party which you have joined can enable you to do the same. In my humble judgment they owe you this much for your support, and, knowing the philanthropic, self-sacrificing disposition of that party as well as I do, your appeal to it will not have been in vain."

THE GAME TO-DAY.

Indianapolis Will Meet Cleveland at the Ohio-Street Park. The first baseball game of the season in this city will be played this afternoon at the | \(\bigcirc \) Ohio-street park, between the Indianapolis club and the Cleveland team of the National League. It should be a lively game from start to finish, as the clubs appear to be very evenly matched.

Local patrons of the game will be given their first opportunity to "size up" the new men. Babb will be at third base, Fleming in left field, and Kellum and Knepper will each pitch three innings. Amos Rusie has consented to pitch the first three innings, both for the benefit of the practice and to demonstrate his excellent playing condition. The Cleveland club came in last night from Terre Haute, where it has been busily engaged in practice work during the past week. In the team are such well-known players as Lave Cross, the crack third baseman, Joe Quinn, who helped the Baltimore club land several pennants; Tom Tucker, formerly with the Bostons; Snyder, the ex-Pittsburg catcher; Dowd and Harley, two of the best outfielders in the country, and Sudoff, a pitcher that can hold his own with the top-notchers. Acting Manager Lave Cross declared that his team, in spite of its recent transplanting from St. Louis to players, and a glance over his roll call seems to bear out this assertion. "The men are all working hard," said Cross last right, "and are fast getting into excellent condition. Many of the players on the team are going to surprise the cranks this summer. We have no right-fielder just at present, but as soon as this hole is filled up, we will be ready for the struggle along with the rest of them. One man who is going to do well this season is Bill Hill. He is in better condition than ever before, and, in my estimation, will pitch great ball from the start. The only thing that bothers us is the uncertainty of League politics at present. We don't know exactly where we are -whether we are to be permanently located in Cleveland or Habandel altogether. But as long as we are together we intend to put up a good article of bail and will begin by playing a hard game against the Heosier Play will be called at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Joe Cantillon, the regular appointed Western League umpire, will handle the indicator. The positions of the players in both teams will be as follows: Indianapolis. Positions. Close of Basket Ball Season.

The basket ball game to be played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium next Wednesday evening closes the season of important exhibition games. The contest will be between two sides composed of members of the representative team, selected in such a way as to make as even a match as possible. The games played here this season have been such easy victories for the home team that Indianapolis people have not seen a firstclass exhibition of team work this year and the object of Wednesday's contest is to Pritchard Left forward Ryse An event of greater interest than the basket ball will be the wrestling match be-tween Ben Farlee and Jud Mahurin which comes off in connection with the game. This match will be to a finish, the men being allowed thirty minutes before the game, the same time during the intermission between the halves, and the finish to come off after the game. The men are evenly matched, both have been training hard for the last month and each is confident of winning. For the special entertainment of the ladies Miss Gladys Nehrbas has been secured to give a fancy exhibition of club swinging.

Glasscock's Fort Wayne Team. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 8 .- A letter received from Manager Jack Glasscock today brings the first official list of players to Zinram; pitchers, Reiman, Brodie, Herr, Whissen and Will Carney; first base, Glasscock; second, Hollingsworth; third, Kuhne or Kavanaugh; short stop, Ball or Gilligan; outfielders, Flood, Letcher, Belden and Norcum. Gilligan is a Cincinnati amateur just signed. The team will report next week and the first games will be with the Buffalos, the Western League team, April 21 22 and 23. A new park two blocks from the courthouse will be ready next week.

Return of the Colonels. LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8 .- The members of the Louisville Baseball Club arrived at noon to-day from Thomasville, Ga. where they have been for the spring training. Mr. Phelps, the attorney retained by given President Dreyfus to-day, advises that, should diplomatic efforts fail to secure Louisville her rights, the matter be taken into the courts. Baseball Notes. At Princeton yesterday the "Tigers" defeated the Fordham College nine 7 to 3. Harvard and Tufts played a pretty game at Cambridge Saturday, the former winning

Mike Kahoe left for his home, in Cincinnati, yesterday afternoon, without placing his signature to his contract. will be sad news to the average crank, as Kahoe has always been popular here. The New Yorks, fresh from the South, played an exhibition ball game at the New York grounds with the Yale team, and as was expected, the local players won, 7 to 2. The batteries were Dohoney, Colcolough, Warner and Wilson; Cook, Robertson and Tom Tucker is a favorite among the Cleveland players. He appears to be in splendid condition, and says he expects to play better ball than ever before. He has great faith in the club, and is willing to make a bet that the Clevelands will win the first game of the season from their successors in St. Louis next Sunday.

It does not seem to be generally known that George Hogriever-he of the gentle manner and modest way-is a "hold-out, along with Motz and Kahoe. But such is the case. The club management, however, is of the opinion that George will turn up some time this week. He is too fond of the game to stay out of it for a season, and the local cranks are just as fond of seeing him play as he is of playing. The Cleveland players expect a series of complications at the opening game of the The patrons of the game in the Mound City will be likely to forget, in the excitement of the battle, which club is their own and which the visiting team. It will be the old St. Louis Browns against the new St. Louis club, and the fun promises to wax fast and furious. Manager Cross announces that Sudoff will pitch for Pickering, who will play in right field this afternoon, is compelled, against his will, to go to Buffalo for the season. He prefers Indianapolis, and the Indianapolis club would like to have him, but President Young has decided that the Buffalo club has the right to claim him, and that settles the matter. THE DANCES APPLAUDED

TWO MORE PERFORMANCES TERPSICHORE'S CARNIVAL.

People Delighted with the Artistic Entertainment-Will Be Given Again on April 13 and 14.

Two more successful performances of the Terpsichorean carnival were given yesterday before large audiences. Some time before the middle of the programme last night there were calls for "The Professor," and after a time Mr. Agostini, who has trained all of the dancers, appeared amid great applause. As soon as silence could be restored he made a little speech, in which he said he had been warned that the people north of the Ohio river were cold, but he had found them cordial, and in conclusion he said that, with such material as he had been furnished here, the dances could not be otherwise than successful. The dances were all beautiful, and particularly the Vestal Virgins' dance. It is poetic, and the series of tableaux are most picturesque. The strong contrast between the white robes and those of the garland dances is effective. The soloists have been admirably chosen. The tiny tots of the Silver Spray have their own ideas about steps, and they invariably create merriment with every pose. Misses Shirle; Thomas and Charline Daly are graceful among the younger solo dancers.

Mrs. Enrique Miller gave the "Song of Sunshine," by Grieg, and was in fine voice. She wore one of the handsomest costumes in the carnival, it being draped with Mexican embroidered crepe shawls, and she wore a gold-decorated bolero and glittered with diamonds. Miss Erla Bowers, a solo dancer for the "Bohemians" and for the "American Beauties," was the personification of grace. Master Ralph Swiggett sang between dances and was-recalled. He has a show the game as it is played by the best sweet, young voice, which he uses nicely, Eastern teams. The line-up will be as fol- and he enunciates well. Miss Erwin, Miss Bird. Miss Springsteen and Mr. Blake Stone, in their songs and dances, shared in the applause so liberally bestowed throughout the performance. The queen and ner court occupied one of the boxes after the Minuet, and the American Beauties and Japanese dancers were on the opposite side of the house. The participants were show-ered with flowers, and roses, carnations and violets went over the footlights by the

Mr. Percy Lynwood received a well-merited ovation after his song. He not only sang well, but he led the dances and proved himself capable in many ways. Throughout the evening, after the dances, the foyer was filled with people discussing in complimentary terms the whole entertainment. There will be two more performances, Thursday afternoon and Friday night, April 13 and 14

ARTS AND CRAFTS EXHIBIT.

To Be Given at the High-School Building Beginning April 14.

The second exhibit of arts and crafts will be held in the High School building during the week beginning April 14, and the indications are that it will far exceed the exhibit of last year The inception of such exhibit last year was far less than its practical working out, and with the exhibit a new thought came into the life of the city. The first exhibit was a revelation as to the variety of interests in this city, for each worker in what may be termed the arts and crafts has lived somewhat apart from the workers in lines other than his own, and nothing but a general exhibit could have brought these lines into close touch. Every room and hall of the building was filled last year, and, had the building been larger, there was still more material to place on exhibition. The coming exhibit will be like the first one. As last year, there will be exhibits of the art and manual work of the schools, of work of Indianapolis artists, of Indianapolis artisans, of Indianapolis factories, of In-The object of such an exhibit is to show the relation between beauty and the daily life of the citizens, to show the work of the school children, which is designed to give to them an intelligent appreciation and the manual dexterity to be both producers and spectators of the beautiful in art and craft. | was first in the standing broad jump, mak-To know beauty it is necessary to know how This is the theory of the art and manual departments of the school. To show the practical application of beauty the relation etween beauty and the various activities of the citizens of Indianapolis will be exhibited It will not be an exhibit for one class of people, but for the pupils of the school, the teachers, the parents and the citizen patriot. It will be essentially a democratic exhibit.

In spite of the disagreeable weather the athletes of the Indianapolis High School held their second preliminary field trials at the Newby oval yesterday afternoon. There was not much of a crowd present, but it made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers. It was impossible for the bicycle racing men to make good time on account of the strong wind which blew across the the 100-yard dash in 12 1-5 seconds, with Taggart second and Mothershead third. In the 220-yard dash Coffin crossed the line first with Taggart and Mothershead second and third, respectively, as before.
